IMMIGRANT INFORMATION

New Bureau of U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) guidelines issued on May 26, 1999, permit immigrants and their children to use health care benefits without affecting their immigration status. USCIS will not consider you a "Public Charge" because you use health care benefits. The exception is if you use Medi-Cal to pay for long-term nursing home care.

Using Nutritional Programs, such as; Food Stamps and WIC (Women, Infants & Children) will also not affect your immigration status.

Non-Citizen eligibility for certain free and low-cost health care services and programs may be different than citizen eligibility rules.

If you have any questions regarding using the health care services listed in this Guide or immigration eligibility for government benefits, please contact any of the agencies listed below:
